Dellone 5.0 out of 5 stars Some reviews have stated that the fit of the plug was a little loose.

That was not the case with the one I received. The plug fits securely and works well. The length of the cord reaches a wall outlet with room to spare, and would work well with a power strip or extension cord if more length was needed. Pay attention to both the inner and outer diameter of the plug and the polarity of the pin to make sure you have the right one. I appreciate this company having the adaptor name AD5 9V and the specs so that I could zero in on the right adaptor. Besides it being the right power output and plug size, I appreciate the blue light on the adaptor to indicate that power is going through it. It works perfectly. It is lightweight but seems quite well built. I like that it sits horizontally when plugged in, so it doesn't block the adjacent outlet. Also, it doesn't get hot when it's powering the keyboard. The blue power light is pretty bright though. The label on the adapter says UL listed, 100240V input and 9V 1A output. Center negative. So far it's working great on our keyboard. Just the one we needed which seemed to be a little difficult to find. but not with you! Glad we found it, and so is granddaughter! Keyboard is about 30 years old and still plays like new. This power supply is superbly made and even comes with a 2 year warranty. It's so nice to be able to pull all those D batteries out. Nice snug connector. Very lightweight wall wart. The indicator light lets you know the adapter is getting current. No complaints at all. Finally can continue my journey learning how to play. Absolutely no issues!
